

Good Farm Guide to Navigating Regulations

SPECIAL RURAL PROFESSIONAL WORKSHOP

Understand the specific legislation that applies to farm businesses, find out what farmers need to know, how they can identify their government regulatory compliance gaps, and where further information and support is available.

On the back of the successful release of the Good Farm Guide to Navigating Regulations and interest from rural professionals, Taranaki Catchment Communities presents a one-off workshop on farm legislation tailored to RPs.

Presented by Perrin Ag, the workshop will cover the key areas of government regulation farm businesses are required to meet, including what's coming up, how farmers can self-assess their business, and take you through how to use the resource guide to support regulatory compliance discussions with your farmer clients.

Information presented at the workshop draws from content developed in the Good Farm Guide to Navigating Regulations which is a one-stop guide to on-farm legislation, and will be provided as a physical ringbinder as part of the workshop.

Farmer feedback of the guide and workshops

"Streamlines my time investment in understanding all this"

"(It's) empowering because if you are really unsure this gives you some awareness to know who to go to or where to go."

"The reference document was brilliant, 10/10. An excellent resource that had everything you would expect and the structure made it super readable."

"It feels less daunting now."
